SPLENDID RESPONSE TO LOAN DRIVE LOCALLY

Subscriptions for the Second Victory Loan are still steadily rolling into the headquarters of the Blairmore-Frank unit, and with one more day to go it is possible that the splendid record of the first Victory Loan, amounting to $194,400, will be exceeded by several thousands of dollars.

A very earnest appeal has been made by the minister of finance, asking for an all-out effort on the part of all our people. Mr. Halsey distinctly states in his message that the original quota for Canada of $600,000,000 was the minimum objective only, and subscribers and committees should not feel that the job is just about finished, but should redouble their efforts right up to the last minute of the campaign.

The minister adds that he is trying to make it clear to the people of Canada that while the government appreciates the support which has been given to the Loan up to this juncture, and everyone is glad to see the total running over the nominal objective, still the job is by no means completed. The pressure of war requirements, and the absolute necessity that we support all branches of our fighting forces with a continuous supply of the best equipment obtainable, makes it absolutely essential that the total subscriptions to the Second Victory Loan be carried substantially beyond the minimum figure originally set.

The Blairmore-Frank salesmen get away to a bad start, due to sickness in their ranks, but they have now practically covered every house in the district. Several cards still are on hand representing new people, and they are very hard to locate; so if you do not get a call from any of the canvassers, remember to call at the headquarters office in the Red Trail Motors, where your subscription will be appreciated.

SECOND VICTORY LOAN GREATLY OVERSUBSCRIBED

Ottawa, March 5, 1942.

Editor Enterprise:

In a final spurt toward an increased mark of $600,000,000, the Second Victory Loan campaign has been intensified to build up the highest possible subscription in the last two or three days of the drive.

The cumulative total of bonds purchased is given at $656,641,900 at the close of business on Wednesday evening. This amount was invested by $65,495 subscribers, compared with $46,580 at the same stage of the first Victory Loan drive last year.

The campaign now stresses the urgent need of every possible dollar of oversubscription, and is appealing to Canadians to register new or additional subscriptions before the loan closes Saturday night.

Yours, etc.,
Dominion Public Relations Committee.

Jim Zitto was in town this week from the Creston Valley capital of British Columbia.

SECOND ANNUAL SKI TOURNAMENT

Crowds of interest spectators witnessed the ski tournament here on Sunday afternoon and evening. Among the successful competitors were P. W. Dennis, of the R.C.A.F., Macleod; H. Armstrong, Miss Swanson and Miss Sparks, of Calgary; Miss Grace Viala and Douglas Paris, of Lethbridge; William McCullough and Miss Wickson, of Macleod; Hazel Millett, Audrey Pinkney, Jackie Patterson, Lloyd Pinkney and John Chamberlain, of Blairmore.

Jackie Patterson won first in men's junior downhill and in men's junior slalom. Lloyd Pinkney came second in the slalom and John Chamberlain second in the downhill. Hazel Millett and Audrey Pinkney took turn about in placing first and second in the ladies' junior slalom and junior downhill. Grace Viala won the Consumers' Hardware cup in senior class downhill race, while Miss Wickson won the Elks' cup for senior ladies' class slalom.

This was the second tournament of the East Kootenay - South Alberta ski zone.

A happy ski party was held at the Greenhill Grill on Saturday night.

EAST KOOTENAY SPECIMENS IN THE PROVINCIAL MUSEUM

In the latest report of the Provincial Museum of Natural History and Anthropology, issued at Victoria, mention is made of contributions sent in from the East Kootenay district. In one section a display has been set up to demonstrate various types of fossils, showing examples of true fossils and also objects which are not true fossils. Another case contains a recently acquired specimen of dinosaur footprints on shale found in the workings of the Crow's Nest Pass Coal company at Fernie through H. P. Wilson, president, and B. Caulfield, colliery manager. These fossil remains are of particular interest, because the only other known place where dinosaur tracks are to be found in British Columbia is in the Peace River district.

A second donation of a geological nature is a collection of fourteen trilobites from the Cranbrook region, collected and presented by Mr. Walter B. Johnstone, of Cranbrook—The Cranbrook Courier.

We don't mind mice playing in our cupboard if they'd only quit "dittin'" on everything.

RECRUITING OFFICER TO VISIT THE PASS

Word has been received from Calgary that an R.C.A.F. recruiting officer will visit this district next week as follows: Fernie-Michel, March 10; Coleman 1 to 5 p.m. March 11; Blairmore 7 to 10 p.m. March 11.

Applications will also be accepted for enlistment in the R.C.A.F. (Women's Division).

A medical officer will be in attendance.

A BOOST FOR HOME PATRONAGE

Calgary daily paper had it that the big ice carnival at Bellevue on Saturday night was held at Wetaskiwin. With all the advertising donated to the Lethbridge Herald last week end, it might just as well be considered as being held in Lethbridge. It is time Pass people waked up to the fact that they should support those who are backing The Pass.

JUST THINK IT OVER

"Let me tell you what I think we should aim to do: I think we should aim to make a reputation for Canadian achievement in this war that will be the talk of the world for generations, that will be the pride of ourselves, our children and our children's children. I want our allies to want the people of what Roosevelt calls 'The United Nations' to ask themselves: 'How can 11,500,000 people in the northern part of this North American continent do so much and do it so well?'" Hon. J. L. Halsey, minister of finance, at Montreal on February 10, 1942.

THE ESSENTIAL SPIRIT

The best attitude for the Victory Loan campaign is not to think about the objective at all, but about the big purpose for which the money is needed. This is the attitude, not only for the workers, but for the people of Canada as a whole. It is not what others may be subscribing that counts, but what the individual decides that he can do and must do himself.—Amherst (Nova Scotia) News.

Appropriations for Alberta's "piggie banks," the treasury branches, for the next fiscal year will be $307,120, an increase over last year's crime of $61,770 for these needless and costly luxuries. Even the salaries have taken a jump of $50,000 over 1941-42. Help the war effort, of course—Aberhart's way.

HILLCREST HAPPENINGS

The Hillcrest Midget Hockey Club held their draw for the 64-piece dinner set at the Miners' clubroom. E. Montegani drew the lucky ticket for Dick Lofstrand, winner.

Cecilia Balkwill was one of the candidates for carnival queen at Bellevue, coming second. She was awarded a sterling silver birthstone ring.

ACI Gordon Orr returned to Yorkton, Sask., after spending a fortnight's furlough here.

John Semunick has been called up for military training.

LAC Frank Douglas has returned to Patricia Bay, B.C., following a brief furlough spent here.

Mrs. T. Evans and son have returned to Hillcrest from the coast, where they had resided for some time.

Hillcrest Midgets played an exhibition hockey game with Coleman on the latter's ice on Sunday, Coleman winning by an 8-1 score.

Miss Ruth McDade left for Calgary on Sunday.

About fifty of her friends gathered at a miscellaneous shower held in honor of Miss Rita Petrone in the Catholic hall on Monday evening. Whist and cootie were played, with prizes going to Mrs. J. Lipnicka, first; Mrs. Craig, second. Cootie prizes went to Mrs. N. Scharek and Mrs. D'Ercole. Mrs. A. Givaterone won the door prize. A dainty luncheon was served by the hostesses, Mrs. R. Anderson and Misses Herta Gall, Angelina Colloso and Amelia Siga. The guest of honor was recipient of many beautiful gifts, for which she thanked her many friends. The party broke up about midnight.

COWLEY HAPPENINGS

Mrs. McIntosh, of the Cowley airport, entertained at bridge on Thursday evening.

Miss Aileen Rits went to Lethbridge on Monday, where she will stay for some considerable time.

William Diamond has gone to Ottawa. Mrs. Diamond will join him there in a few weeks, when they will make Ottawa their home.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Martin and family, Miss Edith Murphy, Alfred Fortin and Maurice Lemire were among the Cowleyites who attended the ski tournament in Blairmore on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Horning and son Gordon, of De Winton, paid a recent visit to Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Swart. Mrs. Griffith Perry and her two children returned with them to visit De Winton friends.

A Red Cross whist drive and dance will be held here on Wednesday night of next week.

Appearances are deceiving. One of the highlights of the Blairmore ski meet on Sunday last was the prize remark made about an aspiring photographer who was taking a light exposure meter. One bright young lad remarked to the other: "Is that guy going to have a shave?"

The sum of $16,900 for tourist and travel bureau purposes is provided for in Alberta's estimates for the next financial year.

A warning to merchants who without question fill requests for sugar in excess of the sugar-rationing regulations is given by Walter S. Campbell, prices and supply representative for Alberta under the Wartime Prices and Trade Board. "As a result of information given to us," says Mr. Campbell, "we have sent out certain persons to make sugar purchases for the board in excess of the amounts allowed for their families. In many cases it was found that merchants filled these orders without any question whatever, and without taking the pain of the purchase."

Nothing in the line of entertainment has ever proved such a drawing card for this district as the fancy skating tournament held at the Bellevue arena on Saturday night last. Long before the opening hour all standing space was occupied and seating room only was available for a time. Hundreds had to be turned away, unable to get into the building. It is estimated that close to 2,000 persons witnessed the show, which was a rare treat to most people of this district. The sponsors, headed by W. Harvey and James Stephens, deserve every commendation for their effort and the resultant success of the affair, highly appreciated by everyone.

The arena was gayly decorated for the occasion, including a very pleasant gesture on the part of "someone" of painting the Union Jack in large form in the centre of the ice. Over this, later in the programme, the Carnival Queen was crowned in the person of Miss Cecilia Young, of Bellevue. She was attended by the other candidates as maids in waiting.

The top-flight performers were Instructor James Stephens, of the Lethbridge and Crow's Nest Pass skating clubs; Lilian and Murdo Munro, of the Glenora Club, Edmonton, and Mrs. Helen Little, of Lethbridge. These artists thrilled the crowd again and again by their graceful and intricate skating. James Stephens starred in two comedy acts, which went over big. The "Starlets," Betty McKelzie and Eleanor Wilson, of Lethbridge Skating Club, opened the programme with a rhythmic exhibition of figure skating. Later in the programme the Lethbridge club was again featured, when a number of its junior members made up the cast of the play, "The Wedding of the Painted Doll."

In addition to being crowned, Miss Young was presented with an engraved gold watch, and next winter will be the carnival's representative at the Banff winter carnival with all expenses paid. Seated beside her during the crowning ceremony were Miss Cecilia Balkwill, queen of Hillcrest; Miss Muriel McLeod, queen of Blairmore, and Miss Doris Jackson, queen of Coleman, all of whom were given sashes and awards. Grandma Beal, of Bellevue, was the queen's chaplain.

Prize winners in the costume parade were: Mrs. W. Alexander, best dressed lady; Leslie Rhodes, best dressed girl; Douglas Jordan, best dressed boy; Mary Serra, best dressed girl, and Mrs. Gordon Key, most original costume.

An enjoyable dance on the ice followed till midnight.

So great was the attendance and car traffic that Mounted Police had difficulty in handling and directing traffic. Parking space covered many blocks, and extended to points outside of town. It was estimated that at least 900 cars occupied space in Bellevue on Saturday night.

This was the first carnival of its kind to be introduced to this district, and will not be the last.

INSPECTOR INCOME TAX DRAWS ATTENTION TO THE FOLLOWING

1. The money invested in War Savings Certificates is not allowed as a deduction from income.
2. The money invested in government bonds or Victory bonds is not allowed as a deduction from income for income tax purposes.
3. The interest received from monies invested in Victory bonds is taxable.

Thoughts On Rationing

If all our rationing, as it comes, is as easy to take as is the new order for sugar rationing, we could count ourselves lucky. Restrictions regarding rubber tires are really the first to strike deep into our everyday life. But because rationing that pinches is on the way, we can start now to take rationing in our stride. As loyal Canadians, all we need to know is the regulations regarding each item—and our fundamental honesty will see to it that we keep within our allotment. Housewives may find it handy to keep a record on the kitchen calendar of when sugar is bought and how much. Car owners can hold each other up to a high level of efficiency concerning tires and gasoline.

Donald Gordon, controller of the war time prices and trade board, is right in giving us a chance to prove to him and all concerned that "Co-operation, not compulsion, is the strength of democracy." Ration cards cost money—money needed for war materials. Let us not by our selfishness lose the battle and squander life on some far-off front because of too few tanks, and too few planes. We believe in the fundamental principles of democracy, honesty, unselfishness, the ability to pull together. Let us live by them.

Necessity For Regulations

Leaders of the Food Trade in Britain issued a manifesto entitled "A Spirit to Implement the Law" which appeared in a Bristol newspaper at the time rationing began over there. It reads:

"In time of war the food trade becomes increasingly important in the life of the nation. Fluctuations of prices or scarcity of supplies quickly affect every home in the country. We of the food trade, therefore, are charged with a great responsibility.

"We realize the necessity for regulations, but no law can cover every case. There are countless occasions on which it must be left to the individual to decide how regulations should be interpreted. Who, for example, can give a watertight definition of profiteering or hoarding? Everything depends on the spirit with which the individual applies the regulations to himself and his business.

"In this war the front line is on our doorsteps; we all need the front line spirit. But in the absence of apparent danger it is not easy to maintain a spirit of comradeship and self-sacrifice equal to that of the trenches. Yet the line between manufacturer, wholesaler, retailer and consumer is a life-line of the nation.

"The creative power for the great task before us can come from no human source. We need a superhuman discipline which reaches down to the smallest detail of our lives. We must have a spiritual incentive stronger than security or profit. This is our part in moral rearmament, in the building of that line of faith, honesty and unselfishness, on which our nation depends.

"If, even as a consequence of the tragedy of war, this spirit could be achieved, foundations of economic peace and prosperity might to-day be laid which would be the finest insurance for the world of tomorrow."

Privilege And Responsibility

We can keep our thinking straight about rationing. We haven't been bombed yet. Our daily life is very little different from what it was in peace time. Our gratitude should spur us on to do our utmost. Next Sunday we may hear announcement of further rationing—and the Sunday after that, and the Thursday after that. What if we are caught with only one day's supply on hand. Let's laugh and get into our stride, showing that democracy works because democrats are willing to work together.

Women have a special privilege and responsibility in the daily life of the country at this time. They do at least seventy per cent. of the nation's shopping. Many of them will be thinking with their sisters overseas, that they can begin accepting the responsibility that lies on their side of the counter. They have determined to carry out the spirit as well as the letter of regulations with regard to buying; to consider the needs of others and to refrain from selfish hoarding. They have also determined to make frank enquiries when puzzled by a rise in price, instead of suspecting profiteering and gossiping about it; to co-operate with merchants by paying bills promptly; to take pride in thrift, and to see that nothing is wasted. In this spirit they believe that they can fight to conquer the fear, greed and selfishness which are the ultimate causes of war itself. Such a spirit cannot be rationed. It is as vital a need as our daily bread, if we are to build up a world where we and our children can rejoice in the freedom and fullness of life.

While rationing takes from us on one hand, it gives to us with the other. It gives us more and greater opportunities to build up a strong basis of civilian co-operation in Canada; a quality of citizenship that prides itself in honesty, and above all counts it a privilege to share in the sacrifices that will increase in the future.

No Coffee In Norway

Reserves of coffee, the national beverage in Norway, are exhausted. Before the war Norwegian coffee consumption per capita was the heaviest in the world. Meat, fish and dairy products have practically disappeared.

People Do Not Change

Change Does Not Matter When Everyone Is In Fashion

The prospect that wartime civilian styles will be simplified is far from remote. But the maiden out to get her man need not worry.

Many years ago, F. Marion Crawford, who had extensive knowledge of the race on three continents, made a sage observation. "Fashion in dress," he said, "appears to exercise less influence upon men and women in their relations toward each other than does any other product of human ingenuity. Provided everyone is in fashion, everything goes on in the age-of-high-heels-and-gowns track, precisely as it did five and 20 years ago, when people wore flat shoes and when gloves with three buttons had not been dreamed of."

Fashions change. People don't.

The Individual Citizen's Army

A Weekly Column About This And That In The Canadian Army.
By Alan Maurice Irwin

Since we occasionally dip into Army slang in these columns let's take a look at the word, "jeep." Now a "jeep" as any follower of "Popeye" knows is an affectionate little animal that is not to be found outside of the artist's imagination. Right? Wrong! A "jeep" is, as the M.C.O. would express it, a "car, light utility, J.P." What's that? Many of you probably know the answer as well as I do now that the Canadian Army Train is on its way across the Dominion.

Used for reconnaissance work, this little four-passenger car can go anywhere a tank can go," says the soldier who explains it to the thousands of men, women and children who visit the travelling army exhibition at towns and cities from coast to coast. "If it gets stuck the four men can get down and lift it out. It is called a 'jeep' or 'blitz-buggy'—and sometimes other names."

Alongside this car are a Universal Carrier and an 8-wheeled Personnel Truck and on the adjoining flat-car at the end of the 15-car exhibition train a search-light 60 inches in diameter and a Valentine tank.

The jeep is only one example of what will be on display at railroad sidings all over Canada as the individual citizen of Canada gets an opportunity to look his Army over at close quarters.

Included in the exhibits are signalling apparatus at work; models of portcullis and folding-bomb; bridges; weapons, from hand grenades to 25-pounder guns—the new Lee-Enfield rifle and short-bayonet are there, and are two and three-inch mortars. There are displays of kit and equipment, a mobile dental clinic, a small hospital ward and a medical inspection station. One car is devoted to the work done by soldiers who have been taught trades necessary to the maintenance of mechanized equipment at the Technical Schools of the Canadian Army Trades School at Hamilton.

Mothers who wonder if their boys get enough to eat will leave the train fully reassured after a visit to the Army Service Corps exhibit with its stirolo roast, big cheeses, fresh vegetables, jams, jellies, eggs and other hearty foods.

For probably the first time the thousands of blood donors who give their blood at Red Cross Blood Donor Clinics will see what it looks like after it has been processed at the laboratory and is ready for shipment. Bottles of the powdered blood now being shipped overseas regularly are included in the Medical Corps exhibit.

Almost as interesting as the train itself is the personnel numbering: 58 soldiers and six officers. These, headed by Lt.-Col. J. E. McKenna, of Montreal, include men from every part of the Dominion.

They form a miniature expeditionary force composed of representatives of every arm and service. Some have returned from overseas as instructors. All are experts in some item to be found in the exhibits and answer questions put to them by visitors.

One, known as "Frenchy" for obvious reasons, showed another side of his character at one of the first stops made by the train. On sentry duty at the entrance he willingly stood guard over babies left in his care while the parents viewed the exhibits.

By the time the Canadian Army Train has completed its itinerary it will have travelled more than 15,000 miles and will have been on exhibition at more than 200 places. So far it is early to predict how many Canadians will see their Army this way but, I'll venture a guess. On its opening day the individual citizens army showed itself to 6,854 persons—an average of 2,284 at each of three stops—or 721 persons per hour. My guess? Well over a million! In fact I'll go further and say it will be nearer two.

Don't miss this train when it hits your neck of the woods—it's worth seeing—it's your train—it's your Army!

Reward For Heroism

British Legion Members At Athens Made Gallant Rescue

Three members of the staff of the British Legion at Athens, who, after escaping to Crete when the Germans invaded Greece, risked their lives to save other members of the legion staff, have been awarded the M.B.E. (Member of the British Empire).

Rodney Bond, Tyrill Carlisle and Edward Dillon got to Crete by boat and learned that another boat carrying most of the staff had been sunk by enemy action and that the party was stranded on an island between Greece and Crete.

Taking food and medical stores, the three men went to the island, although they were in constant danger of bombing, and rescued all the party.

SELECTED RECIPES

COFFEE DATE BREAD

1 cup chopped dates
1 cup Crown Brand Corn Syrup
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup boiling water
1/2 cup cold coffee
1 egg, well beaten
2 cups all-purpose flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
1/2 cup chopped walnuts
1/2 cup Mazola
Temperature: 325 degrees F.
Time: 1 hour.

Method: Combine dates, corn syrup, salt and boiling water, cool slightly. Add coffee and well-beaten egg. Add sifted dry ingredients, nuts and Mazola. Mix lightly. Pour into loaf pan 9" x 5" x 3" lined with waxed paper and oiled with Mazola. Bake in moderate oven.

PEANUT-BUTTER BREAD

2 cups all-purpose flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup brown sugar
1/2 cup Mazola
1/2 cup peanut butter
2 eggs
1 cup milk
1/2 cup Crown Brand Corn Syrup
Temperature: 325 degrees F.
Time: 1 1/4 hours.

Method: Sift dry ingredients. Blend Mazola and peanut butter together, add to flour mixture; mix well. To well beaten eggs add milk and corn syrup. Combine mixtures; mix thoroughly. Pour into loaf pan 9" x 5" x 3" lined with waxed paper and oiled with Mazola. Bake in moderate oven.

Compressed Flour

New Process Developed Which Saves Considerable Shipping Space

A novel idea for the saving of about a third of the shipping space required to transport flour across the Atlantic has been worked out by chemists of the United States Department of Agriculture. The flour is subjected to pressures as high as 10,000 pounds per square inch. This pressure "squeezes out all the empty space between the flour particles."

When this compressed flour was made into bread, after several months the loaf was from 15 per cent. to 20 per cent. smaller than the loaf made from uncompressed flour. The taste was all right. The only apparent difference was that there was more bread in a slice.

Was Great Road-Builder

Major-General Fritz Todt Planned Military Highways In Germany

The report from Berlin says that Maj.-Gen. Fritz Todt was killed in an air accident, but Fritz Todt wasn't a soldier. He was a road-builder who was bigger than any major-general. The autobahns he laid down in Germany made him one of the greatest road builders of all time. They were planned, to accommodate military transport. They ran from the Baltic to Austria, and where they fringed France and Belgium and the Lowlands, were connected by similar highways with other lateral roads to make the transfer of motorized troops possible everywhere at any time.

Dr. Todt had no doubt as to the conquering purpose of his roads when he was ordered to continue one through Czechoslovakia. The Czechs understood the hidden meaning in that four-tracked traffic-way, along which they had even to give police rights to the Germans. It was the Trojan penetration of their land.

Then, when the central Europe trooped the hidden meaning in that four-tracked traffic-way, along which they had even to give police rights to the Germans. It was the Trojan penetration of their land. Then, when the central Europe trooped the hidden meaning in that four-tracked traffic-way, along which they had even to give police rights to the Germans. It was the Trojan penetration of their land.

It is true that Dr. Todt was made a major-general when given an immense army, mostly composed of conquered peoples forced to labor in it. For the German army, seldom called on to labor for itself, this Todt army, his phalanx of bewildered European slaves, fortified the Russian frontier, and as the Germans advanced deeper into Russia last year, threw up other fortifications, among which must have been the line of defence on which the Russian forces have been unwilling to let the Germans rest, now that they are in retreat, back down the roads Todt built—Winnipeg Free Press.

Tribute To Dr. Dafeo

Debt Owed To Famous Doctor Who Cared For The Quaint

The extent to which Dr. Dafeo has succeeded as physician to the five most famous little girls in the world is readily apparent with one look at them. The five Dione sisters are fine, healthy and attractive little girls. They are physically and mentally splendid, and to Dr. Dafeo's great skill and personality must go a large measure of the credit.

Dr. Dafeo, in addition to the expert care which he has given the Quaints, must also be thanked for his role in bringing thousands and thousands of tourists to this district. His skill in keeping the Quaints alive at their birth and the fame which followed the achievement, his own individual charm, and the very appearance of the man, which could not have been more typical of the role of "the little doc," made him loved throughout the continent, and the resulting benefits to this district are well known.

Some form of great tribute, a tri- bute which would express the appreciation of this district for the grand job Dr. Dafeo has done, is now in order.—North Bay Nugget.

Nazi Warships Damaged And Out Of Action

London.—The 26,000-ton German battleships Scharnhorst and Gneisenau, and the 10,000-ton heavy cruiser Prinz Eugen, apparently have been knocked out of the war for some time to come, according to a naval review presented in the House of Commons by the First Lord of the Admiralty, A. V. Alexander.

He also announced: "I can reveal that His Majesty's submarine Trident successfully attacked a cruiser of the Prinz Eugen class off the coast of Norway Feb. 23 and obtained a hit."

The 10,000-ton Prinz Eugen herself accompanied the twin battleships in their escape through the English channel from Brest.

"Aerial reconnaissance subsequently showed a ship of the Eugen class in Trondheim in tow of tugboats and damaged aft," he said. "It seems probable that the ship was the Prinz Eugen, in which case all ships which escaped from Brest have been damaged."

The ocean-going Trident has been dogging Germany's Norwegian sea route and it was there that she sailed the heavy cruiser. On Nov. 26, the Trident was credited with a successful attack on seven German transport and supply ships. Three were seen to sink and four were so damaged that their loss was considered probable.

The admiral's communique on the Trident's attack on the cruiser added that "it is possible that one of the destroyers escorting the enemy cruiser was also hit by torpedoes."

Britain has increased her naval personnel three or fourfold over peacetime strength, Mr. Alexander said.

Remembering that the Battle of the Atlantic has become a battle of the seven seas, he said that at no time has Britain had less than 2,000 ships at risk on all oceans.

He reported the United States was taking measures "to make the task of the U-boat more difficult" while Britain was providing "shipboard fighter aircraft protection for convoys and last year had mounted 12,988 anti-aircraft guns on merchant ships."

Merchant and fishing vessels, he said, now have shot down 76 enemy planes, probably destroyed another 40 and damaged 89.

German U-boat construction undoubtedly had reached an unprecedented scale and boat flotillas are growing monthly, he added.

A new period of raider activity by "both German and Japanese" surface prowlers may be approaching, he warned both Britain and United States, after almost a year without mercantile losses from German surface warships.

Alaska Highway

Report Proposed Northern Route Is Entirely Feasible

Edmonton.—A spokesman for a United States army commission that returned to Edmonton from an inspection tour of the proposed route of the Alaska highway as far north as Fort Nelson, B. C., said construction of the highway through Edmonton, the northern tip of British Columbia and the Yukon is "entirely feasible."

Whether or not the road will be built is not within the province of the commission, he said. Their job primarily was to see the route at first hand and make a report to Washington as to whether the construction of the road was possible.

The commission decided "no barriers exist," he said, but they added, if the road is constructed it will be a huge job.

The commission was headed by Col. W. M. Hoge, of the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers. He will hand the report of the commission to the chief of the corps of engineers at Washington.

Serious Tin Shortage

Metal Trades Receive New Instructions Prohibiting Use

Ottawa.—Metals Controller G. C. Bateman, terming the tin shortage "critical," said new instructions to metal trades prohibit use of virgin tin except with his written permission.

Purchasers of tin and tin alloys in future must state in detail how it will be used and must certify that stocks on hand, plus tin ordered, will not total more than 30 days' supply.

Must Conserve Food

British People Told Heavy Shipping Losses Mean More Restrictions

London.—The British press is driving home to every man and woman in these islands the stark meaning of Hitler's new submarine attack on the ocean lifelines of the nation, and has bluntly warned the people of the United Kingdom they will have to tighten their belts further and accustom themselves to still harder living if this latest threat to their existence is to be overcome.

Prompted by Prime Minister Churchill's grave news that shipping losses are heavier, the nation's newspapers almost without exception laid the onus for greater effort and greater self-denial on the individual.

Must Take Job Seriously

Sir Stafford Cripps Warns People Of Attitude Toward War

London.—Sir Stafford Cripps, lord privy seal, told the House of Commons the government would not permit a "business as usual or pleasure as usual" attitude toward the war from now on.

On the home front, Sir Stafford said, steps will be taken to halt "dog racing and boxing displays" which he called "completely out of accord" with the "solid and serious intention of this country to achieve victory."

Help Of India Of Vital Value To The Empire

London.—It is of vital value to the British Empire that the people of India should fight for the defence of their country and act with Britain in repelling the Axis, Sir Stafford Cripps, lord privy seal, told parliament. "Empire," he said, is helping Britain lose part of her colonial empire and said this could be regained only "on condition that we hold it in the interests of the world and the people who live in those parts."

The present onslaught of the Japanese in addition to the "already enormous forces of Germany and her satellite powers" place upon Britain a "heavier burden than any we have yet borne," he continued.

"We are no less confident to-day of our ultimate victory," but "for weeks, and it may be for months, there will be acute anxiety and difficulty."

The government fully realizes that Britain must do her utmost to make a full contribution toward Empire unity, he added, and the decision regarding India will be followed by a debate "very shortly."

He said Former Minister Arthur Greenwood's department devoted to post-war reconstruction would be continued although arrangements for its direction have not yet been decided upon by the government.

Answering Mr. Hore-Belisha's suggestion that the chiefs of staff should meet alone, Sir Stafford said figures furnished by Prime Minister Churchill showed that in "90 or more per cent" of cases they meet alone, and that it is only on very special occasions that Mr. Churchill presides.

Mr. Hore-Belisha, former war secretary, declared he welcomed the revised government but that "it must stand or fall by the manner in which it meets the needs of this war."

He and other members speaking in the second day of the House of Commons war debate declared three big needs were:

1. That the army be given control over its own supporting aircraft, instead of the R.A.F.
2. That an immediate "generous" gesture be made to India, and that colonial policy be revised.
3. That the government take drastic steps to obtain a maximum of production, and a minimum of civilian consumption.

Mr. Hore-Belisha declared that inadequacy of air support for the army and navy had been a constant factor in British reverses.

Another, he asserted, was underestimating the enemy.

He told the house that Britain was presumed to have reached parity with Germany in plane production, but that "neither the army nor the navy has the types required."

"The navy," he said, "lacks land-based torpedo bombers. . . . There is no dive-bomber. . . . There is no air-plane armed with cannon sufficiently powerful to explode tanks."

"There is inadequacy of machines of the kind to carry parachute troops, and not enough transport carrying planes . . . and gliders."

Matter Of Diplomacy

That Canada Should Continue Relations With Vichy

London.—The British government considers it to be "in the common interest" for Canada to remain in diplomatic relations with Vichy, Foreign Secretary Eden said in the House of Commons.

"In reply to a question received from His Majesty's government in Canada for an indication of their views as to the desirability of maintaining diplomatic relations with the Vichy government, His Majesty's government in the United Kingdom stated that they considered it would be in the common interest if H.M. government in Canada remained in diplomatic relations with the Vichy government," the foreign secretary said in replying to a question by Geoffrey Mander, Liberal.

Mr. Mander then asked: "Isn't it rather odd that one part of the Empire should have diplomatic relations and another part not? There was no reply."

No More New Bicycles

After April Stocks Will Be Reserved For Delivery Work

Montreal.—Canada's youngsters will have to make their old bicycles do because there will be a virtual shutdown shortly in the manufacture of new bicycles, George S. Braden of Toronto, general manager of the Canada Cycle and Motor Company, Limited, said in an address here.

Braden told delegates attending the convention of the Canadian Bicycle and Sports Goods Association that the need of using materials for war supplies will result in the virtual elimination of the manufacture of wheel goods such as tricycles, kiddie cars, juvenile bicycles and wagons after April.

He said stocks now available will be earmarked for factory workers and for delivery and messenger work.

COMMANDS SCHOOL

Wing Commander R. H. Waterhouse is the new officer commanding at No. 5 Service Flying Training school, Brantford. One of the "originals" of the station, he had been posted there as squadron leader. He succeeds Group Captain B. F. Johnson, now in Toronto as senior personnel staff officer. Wing Commander Waterhouse is a member of the R.A.F. on loan to the R.C.A.F.

Defence Of Coastal Areas

Five Thousand Trained And Equipped Reserve Forces Ready

Ottawa.—More than 5,000 fully trained and equipped reserve army troops from Military District No. 3 (Kingston, Ont.) are to be prepared to be rushed to the defence of coastal or other areas in the Dominion should the need arise, Col. P. H. Gardner of Kingston told a meeting of reserve unit officers here.

He announced at area command headquarters the organization of the new brigade group authorized by defence headquarters. Some 80 per cent of the men in this group will be from Ottawa, he said.

RESCUED FROM THE SEA

Saved from the Atlantic are these members of a tanker recently sunk by a German submarine. The survivors, clad in rubberized outfits with which the lifeboat was equipped, were rescued after 11 days by a Canadian warship. Twenty-nine of a crew of 33 were rescued. The captain died the day after the rescue.

"YOU'VE EARNED A REST," RALSTON TELLS CANADIAN CORPS LEADER

Lieut.-Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton, commander of the Canadian Corps in Britain, came back to Canada to a "deserved rest" as Hon. J. L. Ralston, minister of defence, put it. Mr. Ralston is shown here talking with Gen. McNaughton at a press conference in Ottawa. The Canadian Corps commander, commenting on Canadian war materials, declared Canadian-made tanks are the best made and the Canadian brains that designed them are the best there are.

Coal Control

Would Place Britain's Coal Mines Under Control Of National Board

London.—The national council of labor approved a scheme to place Britain's coal mines under control of a national coal board representing the government, the coal owners, and the miners.

The plan was drafted by sub-committees of the Mine-workers Federation and the National Council of Labor as an alternative to complete nationalization.

The main aim of the proposed establishment of a national coal board is to obtain maximum output by a system of unification and make the best use of all available labor.

In House Of Commons

London.—Sir James Grigg, promoted from the civil service to the cabinet post of secretary of state for war, will sit in the House of Commons as soon as a place can be found for him. Sir Stafford Cripps, leader of the house, announced there had been speculation previously as to whether Sir James would sit in the lower chamber or be raised to the peerage.

Scorched-Earth Policy In Russia Balks Nazi Plan

Berne.—The devastating effect of Russia's scorched-earth policy, serious labor shortages, and the flight of thousands of potential workers before the German army were reported to have crippled Germany's attempts to gear the economy of occupied Russian areas to that of the reich.

The German press has complained of hardships and difficulties created by the Russian scorched-earth policy.

The newspapers said also that in some areas more than 50 per cent of the population departed with the Russian army, taking most of the horses, tractors and other implements, and that in Dnepropetrovsk alone 200,000 out of a total population of 380,000 left the city.

"Those leaving usually are described by the Germans as being 'taken away' by the Russians."

The Nazis also complained about the number "taken away" from the Baltic states. German sources said, more than 50,000 persons, all skilled workers or professional men such as engineers and doctors, left with the Russians, and that more than 100,000 left Estonia.

The Germans have issued a decree providing for compulsory service of doctors, dentists, druggists, nurses and members of auxiliary medical branches in the Baltic states.

In the Ukraine, the Deutsche Ukraine Zeitung said, the agricultural situation is difficult because the Russians "killed or removed the best workers" and because of a great shortage of equipment.

In Bessarabia, the labor shortage was said to be so great that even the Bessarabian population has been conscripted for farm work. A new decree ordered all persons between the ages of 12 and 60 to work on the farms from "sunrise to sundown."

Wants Britain To Inaugurate Air Offensive

London.—Viscount Trenchard, marshal of the Royal Air Force, told the house of lords he believed Britain should hit Germany hard from the air "so that the great German army has to face the Russians attacking in front and our bombing forces attacking to the rear."

"Interrupt the life of their nation," he said. "The Royal Air Force is planning to do it. It is the sole weapon that can get to the heart of Germany."

He said that probably no more than half of the available bomber force has been used against Germany. The other half, he said, has been engaged in miscalculation or attacking ships.

Lord Chatfield, admiral of the fleet, dealing with the naval aspects of the war, asked the government to give information in secret if necessary on the naval building program "so the country can have some confidence in our naval position and will know when there will be an opportunity to regain our position in the Pacific."

New German battleships, he said, are bigger than Britain's and highly modern.

"People do not seem to realize that the only way we can lose the war in a day or a week is through the navy," he added. "We may need tanks and aircraft to win victory, but you can lose a war by not having enough ships."

Lord Duns, discussing the war cabinet changes, said he thought there would have been better for the Dominions and Britain if Viscount Cranborne, new colonial secretary, had remained in the Dominions office and been in charge of the war cabinet.

He expressed regret that the war cabinet is not directly represented in the house of lords.

Service Is Extended

Brief Messages May Be Sent To Canadians In Japan

Ottawa.—Through the neutral channels of the International Red Cross messages, brief and personal in character, may be sent to Canadians in Japan, and in German-occupied Estonia, the post office department said.

The service is already in existence for messages to Canadians in Germany, Austria, Italy, Czechoslovakia, Poland, Belgium, and Netherlands, Luxembourg, Norway, occupied France and the Channel Islands.

Irrespective of their destination, the messages are first addressed to the International Red Cross at Geneva, Switzerland, and from there they are directed, often by tedious routes, to the country where the addressee is located.

At along the way, the message is scrutinized by censors of various nationalities, and the post office warned that persons seeking to get in touch with relatives or friends by this method should confine themselves to family news, inquiry as to the well-being of the addressee or his relatives and friends.

"Nothing of a political, economic or military character is permitted," the regulations read.

The Canadian wishing to make use of this Red Cross service must apply to his local postmaster for a special form for which a small fee is charged. The fee for the form covers the cost of postage from Geneva to Canada after it has been in the hands of the addressee and he has written his reply on the back.

Postal authorities also announced that all mail service to Malaya, which includes the federated and unfederated Malay States and to the Straits Settlements, "including Singapore," had been suspended.

Lifboat Was Crowded

Sydney, Australia.—During part of the flight from Fergusson Island, near Samarai, New Guinea, to escape Japanese bombs, 132 persons traveled 40 miles in a boat built to hold 12. Among them were five Methodist women missionaries.

Execute German Mayor

Berne.—Karl Sautmann, 63, mayor of the village of Mayschoss, west of Coblenz, Germany, has been executed because of offences against Germany's economic war decrees, the Berliner Lokal Anseiger reported.

Japan Admiral Killed

Tokyo (From Japanese Broadcasts).—The navy ministry announced that Rear Admiral Shusaku Shibuya had been killed in action Feb. 14 off Borneo. 2453

PRICE CEILING POLICY
WITH BANKS

Presidents and general managers of banks have referred to the price ceiling policy in their annual addresses to shareholders, and without exception, so far as we have noted, with commendation of the policy, or at least of its objective. But it should also be noted that they have been aware of the necessity for modifications and adjustments, even though the chartered banks themselves escaped from the ceiling which presses so severely on so many other sellers of services and of nearly all goods.

The battle to prevent inflation is one in which every person has an interest. The person who would cheer at seeing that battle lost would cheer at seeing his own house, inadequately insured, burnt to the ground. There is no insurance against the evils of inflation. But the best hope of winning the battle is that nothing be done by government to business that is not necessary. It is quite as important that the frills of the policy be reduced as that the frills in business be eliminated in order to help consumers get essential goods without constantly rising prices.—The Printed Word.

Addressing the big Victory Loan gathering at Fernie on February 23rd, His Honor Lieutenant-Governor Woodward of British Columbia, “called for sterner measures on the part of the Dominion government. The time has gone when we want to be asked to do things. We want our government to tell us to do them. We have underused our enemies and oversold ourselves.” He related his experience on his trip to the Old Country, mentioning the heroism of the merchant marine who man the ships to and from British ports; how the “Western Prince, a former luxury liner, was torpedoed by a U-boat off the coast of Iceland during the stormy weather of December, and deeds of heroism performed by members of the crew; how a Cockney steward spurned the opportunity of taking to the lifeboat, but after going into the stricken ship to retrieve the Spitfire fund, elected to join the skipper and go down with his ship; how one of the crew members in the lifeboat manned the sweep for eight or nine hours to keep the craft containing its human cargo of forty passengers facing heading into the sea, cajoling and encouraging them in an effort to keep up their morale.” Following a huge parade and demonstration, the gathering was addressed by the lieutenant-governor; Tom Uphill, M.P.P., and others.

Somebody's Son has volunteered to risk his life for you...
Somebody's Son is far from home and the things that homefolk do...
Somebody's Son for your Freedom's sake is preparing himself for war...
Somebody's Son deserves your help—for it's YOU he is fighting for! Somebody's Mother is giving her boy in a Cause that is yours as well...
Somebody's Wife knows a loneliness that only her heart can tell...
Somebody's Mother and Somebody's Wife are doing all they can do...
Somebody prays that some other may care—and the answer is up to YOU!
Somebody's Son in the days to come must meet the bitter Test...
Somebody's Man for our Freedom's plan in a foreign field may rest...
Somebody's Job is to care for them NOW—for on them all our hopes depend...
Somebody's Job is to dig up the cash—and that Somebody's YOU, my friend!

MORE WORKERS
PAY INCOME TAX

Nearly five million British workers who have never paid taxes before are now having income tax payments deducted from their weekly wage.

A single man or woman earning $38 a week find only $26 in the pay envelope. The other $12 has been taken for income tax. A married man with two children pays $6 out of a weekly salary of $38.

But $38 is exceptionally high pay for an English worker. Taking industry generally, the average wage last summer ran around $20 a week. A man in this $20-a-week bracket, if single, now finds himself $4 short each week; if he is married, $2.50 will be deducted for the tax. He will draw his full $20 salary without any income tax reduction only if he is married and has two children of school age.

The sliding tax scale in Britain does not tax those who earn less than $9 a week. All married men, including the childless, who earn less than $19 a week are not taxed.

The Lawyers' Seat

Eighteen lawyers were seated about a fireplace. It was a raw, wet night. A stranger, wet to the hide, came in, tried to get accommodation and found not a room left. Shivering, the stranger looked at the fire, but the lawyers formed such a solid line about it that he could not get near it. Finally one of the lawyers, in a spirit of frivolity, turned to him and said:

“My friend, are you a traveller?”
“I am, sir. I have been all over the world.”
“You don't say! Been in Germany, Egypt, Japan, and all lands in Africa and Asia?”
“All of them; been everywhere.”
“Ever been in Hell?”
“Oh, yes, been there twice.”
“How did you find things there?”
“Oh, much the same as here—lawyers all next to the fire.”

The marriage is announced of Christina Heatley, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. McVey, to James William, second son of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Rae, both of Blairmore. The ceremony was performed at St. Andrew's manse, Lethbridge, on February 21st, by Rev. E. L. Garvin.

If it was possible to do so, Dr. W. W. Cross made himself and the government of which he is a member look more foolish than even the opposition could wish when he said Hitler knows that the Social Credit government of Alberta has the solution for all the financial problems.—The Spotlight.

We are surprised that Aberhart would permit the investment of provincial funds in Dominion bonds. Does not this put the province in the same seat as the big shots who demand their pound of flesh in interest? Now, if the Dominion should cut Alberta's interest in half, like Alberta is doing, wouldn't there be a howl to high heaven? — Claresholm Local Press.

I AM THE PRINTING PRESS

(By Robert H. Davis)
I am the printing press, born of the mother earth. My heart is of steel, my limbs are of iron and my fingers are of brass. I sing the song of the world, the orator of history, the symphonies of all time.

I am the voice of today, the herald of tomorrow. I weave into the warp of the past the woof of the future. I tell the stories of peace and war alike. I make the human heart beat with passion or tenderness. I stir the pulse of the nations, and make brave men do braver deeds, and soldiers die.

I inspire the midnight toiler, weary at his loom, to lift his head again and gaze with fearlessness into the vast beyond, seeking the consolation of a hope eternal.

When I speak, a myriad of people listen to my voice. The Saxon, the Latin, the Celt, the Hun, the Slav, the Hindu all comprehend me.

I am the tireless clarion of the news. I cry your joys and sorrows every hour. I fill the dullard's mind with thoughts uplifting. I am light, knowledge, power. I epitomize the conquests of mind over matter.

I am the record of all things mankind has acclaimed. My off-spring comes to you in the candle's glow, amid the dim lamps of poverty, the splendor of riches, at sunrise, at high noon and the waning evening.

I am the laughter and tears of the world, and I shall never die until all things return to the immutable dust.

I am the printing press.

RE RATIONING OF GASOLINE

The department of provincial secretary is advised by the Dominion authorities that application forms for the purpose of obtaining gasoline ration coupon books will be distributed through the post offices in Alberta.

The rationing plan establishes a basic, or "A" category, for private passenger-type motor vehicles, and other special categories to take care of essential use. Motor vehicles used for pleasure purposes are classified in category "B" and owners may obtain ration coupon books when taking out their 1942-43 motor vehicle licenses. Applicants for inclusion in other categories after securing their 1942-43 motor vehicle licenses are required to forward a properly completed application form direct to the Regional Control Office, Williamson Block, Edmonton, which office will classify and endorse thereon the category established and return the same to the applicant to enable him to secure the necessary ration coupon book from an issuer of motor licenses.

The fee prescribed by the Dominion authorities for a ration coupon book is one dollar. No gasoline can be purchased on and after April 1st, 1942, without coupons, and no coupon ration book will be issued to any person who is not in possession of his 1942-43 motor vehicle license. The 1942-43 motor vehicle licenses were obtainable as from March 1st.

PRAYER FOR THE ABSENT ONES

O Lord, be with our absent ones.
Do Thou with them abide.
We were together yesterday,
Today the seas divide.
Defend them, Lord, from every foe.
Wilt Thou their Pilot be
That they might learn their fellowmen
To serve—first serving Thee.
O keep them steadfast, strong in faith,
Before their eyes the goal,
Put Thou a song upon their lips—
With victory in the soul.
O spare them yet, Most Gracious Lord,

CANADIAN LEGION

ST. PETER'S

It is possible to lose the war this year, the sub-executive council of the Canadian Legion, warned recently declaring that the disasters in the Far East, the threat to both the Atlantic and Pacific seabords from enemy forces and the lack of allied success in other theatres of war have intensified the need for immediate adoption of a total war programme.

Tens of thousands of citizens, and powerful and representative organizations, have endorsed the Canadian Legion stand, and the Prime Minister himself has stated his belief in the necessity, for total war and his intention of adopting it, yet no practical method has yet been submitted to parliament, the delegates stated.

They further clarified the manifesto issued to Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King and certain members of his cabinet on October 21, 1941, by pointing out that compulsory military service outside of Canada is only one phase of the question. Not only are

he sub-executive members declared that the present situation demands action, instead of endless discussion and warned that lack of having a concrete plan before parliament to meet current perils may lead to incalculable disaster.

A clipping from a Nova Scotia paper, printed on April 1st, 1951, has reached our office. Here it is: Aberhart died and went up to Heaven. When he reached the Pearly Gate, St. Peter said "Hello, who are you?" "Why, I am Aberhart, once premier of Alberta. Why, you must know me. Look at all the good things I did for the province when I was in power." "Wait here a few minutes," St. Peter said, "while I look at the book." St. Peter left Aberhart standing there at the gate, but when he returned a few minutes later, Aberhart had gone, and there was no golden gate.

WE'RE FOR RATIONING

This paper finds it difficult to understand why the Price Board authorities should be so loathe to be wary about instituting rationing because of the cost of issuing ration cards. We are equally in the dark why the government has not issued instructions to the board to go ahead.

Our record of dividing up materials that have become scarce has not been impressive to date. The gasoline campaign was a total flop and no one knows yet how the sugar situation will turn out. Grocers have told us they have given up trying to police their customers—to keep track of all the purchases would be impossible.

Rationing to our mind is like conscription in other fields. It is fair to one and all—money doesn't matter and cuts no ice. Actual need is the thing in rationing, and the wealthy have to take it with the poor. It is completely equitable.

And the cost? What would the cost be compared with that miserable plebiscite we are evidently going to have?

MATRON'S SLIM SPRING ENSEMBLE

By Anne Adams

There's a definite feeling of spring in this new frock designed by Anne Adams, especially if you make the jacket to match! Plan Pattern 4994 in a soft silk or rayon print and you can wear it now and all during the spring season. Every detail is fashion-right... the soft neckling with optional scalloped, the row of darts above the waist to cinch-in the fullness of the bodice the choice of short, three-quarter or long sleeves, and those two panels in the skirt will deceive the eye on the width of your hips! The well-cut jacket with long sleeve, three-quarter sleeves, is a slimming feature, too, and may match or contrast with the dress. If you choose contrast, do accent the unusual collar by making it of the same fabric as the dress.

Pattern 4994 is available in women's sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48 and 50. Size 36, dress, takes 3 yards 39 inch fabric.

Makes Perfect Mount

How Horses Are Chosen For Use By Russian Cossacks

The Russian cavalry is coming in for much praise just now. A Pole who lived in Russia a long time writes "The Russian cavalry horses are small but tough and capable of great exertion on little food."

"When a Russian peasant has bred a colt he takes him for a two-hour gallop in winter and leaves him for a whole night in the cold to 'cool off.' If the horse dies of pneumonia then it was not worth keeping. If it survives it makes a perfect mount for Russian Cossacks. This rather harsh treatment has existed since the 18th century. Napoleon learned it to his cost."—London Daily Sketch.

SO YOU'RE GOING TO DO A PLAY?

Properties are an essential part of all plays and a detailed list should be made early in the rehearsals. The director and the players each have their responsibilities in this matter and should be prepared to assume them right from the beginning.

Floor Plan

The director should draw a floor plan if one is not found in the play book, and place the furnishings in their proper positions. This will discourage any argument as to movement later, if it is all laid out at the beginning. The type of furniture, having regard to the period, color of drapes, rugs, etc., brie-a-brac needed, should all be listed. Then the dressing for the stage, the lamp on the table, the ornament on the book case, the pillows on the couch, the geraniums in the window, etc., should be noted by the director, when rehearsals are in the early stages. Seeing that there is any possibility of having a difficulty about any of these arrangements to change the script would be a simple matter. For instance, I am doing a play in late March and the script says, "Williams' pearls." I checked with the grocer and found it to be an English play we are being careful to use the name of a soft, juicy apple which would be having a secured. One of the ladies walked to the phone, called a number, chatted for a few minutes and then turned to me and said, "I have the piano for you. Will you pay the drying charges?" So it goes. I went to see it this morning and found it to be exactly what I required, square and a little tinkling sound when it is played. If enough interest can be aroused in the preparation of the play, there will be a packed hall the night of production.

Personal Props

Another list to be prepared is that of personal props for the players. Some directors ask the players to do this themselves, but often it is not thoroughly done, hence remembering the old adage, "When you want a thing done, do it yourself." I, as director make a list, which might somewhat resemble this:

Act I.
Bible (altar)
Curtains at window (open)
Candles (at altar, out)
Music (piano).
Dish with candy (piano).
Two addressed letters (desk)
Two wine glasses (shelf in cupboard, upper right).
Two lamps (out) on table, down right, and on desk.
White thread, scissors, in bowl, on shelf, upper right.
Off stage, gloves for maid (right).
Next week, we will finish the preparation plots lists, (costume and advertising). Please include a self-addressed stamped envelope if writing for any information.—Mary Ellen Burgess, Box 326, Regina.

Reforestation Plan

British Columbia To Plant Ten Million Trees A Year To Renew Forests

A big reforestation plan for British Columbia, calling for the planting of 10,000,000 trees a year to replenish the province's giant forests now being logged off, will get into full swing this spring.

Lands Minister A. Wells Gray said that all areas for replanting have been cleared and prepared in advance and spring planting began on denuded areas Feb. 15. Hundreds of men will be employed to clear the land of stags and brush and plant the Douglas fir, Western hemlock and red cedar trees.

Trees production has now been accelerated in two branch nurseries the minister said, and for the first time the 1942 nursery production will carry out sufficient planting stock to provide artificial reforestation on a large scale.

The minister emphasized the magnitude of the scheme by saying that last year, with the plan not yet in full swing, 98,000 stags were felled in 15,000 acres of forests and 30 miles of roads were constructed for motor truck travel so replanting crews could get into remote areas.

DISCOVERING WHY PEOPLE DRINK BEVERAGE ALCOHOL

Golden text: Wine is a mocker... And whosoever drinketh thereby is not wise. Proverbs 20:1.

Lesson: Genesis 43:34; Psalm 104:14, 15; Proverbs 31:4-7; Ecclesiastes 2:1-3, 10, 11; Isaiah 55:1-2; 1 Corinthians 10:8, 7.

Devotional reading: Psalm 16:1-6.

Explanations and Comments

One Reason for Drinking: to Make Merry. Genesis 43:34. Joseph was in power in Egypt, and famine was "above in the land." Joseph's brothers had come down from Canaan to Egypt a second time to buy grain, and Joseph invited them to a feast. He himself sat at a table apart, the brothers by themselves, and the Egyptians by themselves (with Hebrews) would not eat with Hebrews).

From his royal seat Joseph sent a diet of meat to each of his brothers as a mark of honor, but he showed his special love for Benjamin by sending him five times as much as to the others. And they drank and were merry with him. There was an abundance of grapes from which to make wine, the water was bad, and the ancient Hebrews drank wine abundantly as freely as we drink tea or coffee.

Another Reason for Drinking: to Gladden the Heart, Psalm 104:15, 16. Psalm 104 is about God's care over all his works, as its heading states. God causes the grass to grow for the cattle and the crops to grow which man raises from the earth for food and for wine to make his heart glad. A Third Reason for Drinking: to Forget One's Misery, Proverbs 31:4-7. About 450 B.C., a Chinese author wrote:

"Thus to the tyrant Shen, our King, Wan, said:
"Alas, alas! Yin's king so great,
Not Heaven, but spirits flash your face red.
That evil this you inflict.
You do this to your conduct what is wrong—
Darkness to you the same as light;
Your policy feasts and reveals you prolong.
The day through you is black as night."

Stimulated by the mother of King Lemuel admonished him to avoid wine lest it prevent him from dealing justice due to the afflicted.

All Are Examples to Avoid. 1 Corinthians 10:8, 7. Paul had been telling the Corinthians about the Hebrews who were overthrown in the wilderness. He added that the Hebrews were an example to the Corinthians of what to avoid: they did not lust after evil things as the Hebrews had lusted for the fleshpots of Egypt (Numbers 11).

Is Being Widely Used

Few Vacant Lockers in Winnipeg's Central Storage Plant

Individual refrigerated food lockers located in a large central storage plant are the latest scientific methods of food preservation for Winnipeg modern housewives.

The new system, now part of the regular service of a large cold storage plant, makes it possible for any family to place in their private locker any type of fresh vegetable or meat with the assurance they can take the articles out weeks or months later still fresh and edible.

Since the inception of the idea, private family lockers have increased from 300 to 800 with few vacant. During the hunting season when hunters bring in wild ducks, prairie chickens and partridges these are handed over for fast freezing and storage. The service of the plant also includes plucking and cleaning if desired.

High speed ammonia compressors service the entire plant and one new unit recently installed has a capacity of 27 tons of refrigeration daily. The plant is located in downtown Winnipeg.

Health LEAGUE OF CANADA presents TOPICS OF VITAL INTEREST

CARE OF THE TEETH

According to Dr. M. H. Zimmerman, instructor at the School of Dentistry, New York University, most people do not look after their teeth properly. This lack of proper care has the result that by the age of 25 most people average four teeth lost; by 30, the number has increased to seven, and by 40, there are about 10 gone.

Dr. Zimmerman explains that much of the fault lies with the cleaning department of teeth. The simple rotary movement that children make when brushing their teeth is not enough. They are first teeth, but adults must attack their molars much more vigorously. This includes daily massaging of the gums and cleaning of the crevices between the teeth.

A small brush, with a stiff bristle is best to use. Unless there is some special dental condition, any good advertised brand of toothpaste will do. There are several directions to clean thoroughly—front, inside top and bottom, outside top and bottom and the same for both left and right side teeth.

Dr. Zimmerman recommends brushing the teeth after every meal, but twice a day is actually sufficient, if the job is done conscientiously.

When trouble develops with the bone structure of the teeth, investigation often proves that the patient is not eating enough milk. Milk provides the vital bone-building calcium and phosphorus, so necessary to healthy teeth and bone structure.

Faithful Dog

A Canadian bomber squadron has a huge Irish wolfhound as a mascot. It belongs to a pilot officer from Montreal. When he goes out on an attack another officer takes charge of the wolfhound, which watches the Wellington bomber, with his master in the cockpit, soaring into the sky. When he returns it welcomes him with barks that can be heard above the racket of the engine—Canada's Weekly (London).

Identify Established

The Langster family, Chatham, Ont., has established the identity of the thief responsible for repeated theft of bottles of milk from their back porch. The "thief" is a dog, which had no difficulty, apparently, in running off with a bottle of milk in his teeth.

The Same Element

A ton of charcoal sells for about $20 while a ton of poor quality diamonds would bring about $75,000,000, yet both are composed entirely of the same element—carbon.

CHAPTER XI

Tamar looked at the two men out of the corner of her eye. Ranny was positively glowing. She shivered with a warm glow. It was fun to see Ranny jealous! "Are you ready, Mr. Sande?" she asked softly, sweetly.

Ransome Todd opened the car door. Still and himself fettered to his gentlemanly instincts, Tamar thought. Ranny closed the door carefully. "Nice to have had lunch with you, Tam, dear."

For Ranny to have added the word, dear, to his parting, was more than Tam could bear. "Well, Uncle Ransome, hello for me," she said. "Everybody's related in the South, but especially around Tahlanekas," she explained to Sande. "Good-by, Ranny, dear."

Christopher Sande laughed as they drove out of town. "Of course you two are no more related than are you and I, Miss Randolph. What's it all about? Is Todd a little jealous?"

"Just a little possessive," she amended. "No, we're not related, but you'd think he is at least my brother."

"Brother! There's no advantage in that kind of a tie-up. I think he'd rather be more than a brother."

Tamar drove in silence for a moment. "He wants to take care of me. I think I shouldn't go driving around in the country now that the Cricket Hill is being mined again."

"I think he's right, much as I hate to admit it, Miss Randolph. Use discretion."

I shouldn't have mentioned it again, she thought. "Here's our turn," she said aloud, driving into the dusty road that led to the mine. "I'll try to borrow a horse for you and we'll go riding, if you really would like it."

"There's nothing better," Sande said. He stood by the car for a few minutes thanking her for the ride. She noticed the little freckles across the bridge of his nose, and saw the gleam in his hair that the sun brought out, his hands were strong and tanned.

Sande was not a handsome man, she told herself. But there was a charm, the spirit of adventure or whatever it was, that made men like him conquer raging streams, drive tunnels through mountains, cross steel ribbons over forbidding waters.

Tamar turned her car about and retraced her own tire tracks in the new dust that had settled since morning. Once more her hands were trembling at the wheel. Her eyes burned from the direct light of the sun, and she took out the forgotten dark glasses and adjusted them. She drove slowly, while she fitted them over her straight little nose.

A few weeks ago she had been in despair. She knew her father was trying to get a new loan at the bank when Major Towne came to him with the excitement of his gold strike and his offer to take up the option and lease the land.

Her father had jumped at it like a drowning man grasping at a rope. Of course, she realized that he was not a really keen business man or he would have made investigations before he gave his word.

The new contracts accomplished, after she had been declared by law as half-owner of the Cricket Hill, things at Shadwell began looking up. The mining equipment had been moved in, and already the clackety-clack of the little engine that pulled the carloads of ore out of the hill could be heard for miles in the silent summer mornings.

As soon as the amalgamation mill was completed and the process perfected for its production, the gold bars would be made right on the grounds. As she pulled up a hill, she could hear the sound of a big truck. And as it approached, she could see that it carried another load of equipment to be used in the amalgamation mill.

The first week, Tahlanekas had driven out from their little town to watch the operations, but it was blistering hot the first month after the Major's strike, and they soon settled back into their unbroken lethargy.

The citizens impartially discussed the gold "digging" along with the tale of how old man Fettes had come into town roaring drunk, and willing to sell a nugget he had discovered in a cartwheel rut, as he went to his creek to pan that day.

Tamar drove over to one side of the road and let the truck pass. She waved in response to the driver's nod of greeting.

A woman will get just as much respect she deserves, she told herself as she remembered Christopher at learning that she was driving about alone.

She turned into the drive at Shad-Sande's and Ransome's indignation fell, and Aristotle looked across the lawn. "Like for me to polish de dah, Miz Tamar?" He stood on one foot, methodically scratching the back of his leg with the other.

Tamar said: "You did a grand job the last time. I'll give you a quarter if you'll get this dust off. Be careful and don't make a single scratch on it!"

He opened the door. "Shall Ah drive it aroun' to de back and hose it?"

Tamar stopped aghast. Where is my mind, she groaned. She got back into the car and stepped on the starter.

"Not unless I want to see it wrappled around the linen tree out there. Thanks, I'll take it around. And Aristotle, hear me, you're not to touch this car's wheel unless I give you permission!"

"Yas'm. Dat's what Ah's thinkin'."

With Aristotle busily throwing a stream of water on the car, Tamar walked up the flagstone walk to the side door. She crossed the butler's pantry, known as the "buttery," and heard Phoebe singing "Toll, Jordan, Roll."

"Wanta t' go t' heabn when Ah dis?"

"T see Sweet Jobdon—is dat you ef face appeared in the open door. Good times are back at Shadwell, good times like ol' Mammy used to tell about, Phoebe thought. "Time yo' got back! Yo' Mammy been istensin' for yo' sleep an' de state's fash got de chess board and waitin'."

"Thanks, Phoebe." Tamar crossed the kitchen with its old fireplace at one end, and its new electric range at the other. The old, struggling for recognition against new modern replacements.

"Heah's dat ginghambread Ah made for yo'. Wif de last ob de New Orleans mailmans. Lap up dat sauce, min' me, now! Yo' lookin' peakid since yo' been buyin' yo' self so much lately."

"Thanks, Phoebe. It does look good."

Tamar shrugged her shoulders in the blue sweater, and slid into a chair at the kitchen table. I'll bet Christopher Sande would like this ginghambread, she was thinking. He with his old Boston-brown-bread-and-baked-bean ancestry. But Christopher was not of the elite circle of Boston or he wouldn't be out doing work with his hands, she reminded herself. Or was that all story-book fiction?

Phoebe sat and shelled peas into a yellow bowl, her eyes divided between Tamar and the bounding green globules. Suddenly her deft hands stopped in mid-air, her mouth opened ludicrously, but no words came forth.

"She looks jes lak Ah feels when dat good-fod-nothin' Bilje comes 'round 'round' wif one ob dem hant he steals 'em Staafod!" Phoebe thought. She clamped her lips together and continued her pea-shelling.

Phoebe stood and watched Tamar as she left the room. That Indian, like Tamar, Tamar always had a smile and a word for everybody, and especially for Phoebe's thoughtfulness.

"Bumpin' on yo' min', Chile, Ah knows de look!" Phoebe said to herself.

Tamar went upstairs and chatted with her mother. They had their game of chess after Tamar had taken a quick shower and changed into lounging pajamas. Tamar had to keep her attention riveted to the chess men. If she didn't she found it straying back to the events of the morning.

Her father came up and joined them in the late afternoon. He lifted Marie over to her large chair by the window facing the Chestate.

The telephone jangled, and he picked up the receiver. As he answered, a quick frown replaced his pleasant look on his face, and Tamar stopped turning the pages of her magazine. The room was electric with excitement. When he spoke the second time, his voice was harsh. "Honey, baby, is he hurt?"

Tamar dropped her magazine and came to his side.

"No, the nearest hospital is 25 miles away. Bring him on here at once and I'll call Dr. Forester. Be careful with him, but hurry!"

Randolph replaced the telephone in its cradle and said, trying to keep his voice calm: "There's been a little accident at the Cricket Hill."

Tamar's heart jumped. She knew even before he spoke that it was Christopher Sande who had been injured. "I'll fix a room at once, while you call the doctor. Is it the engineer?"

"Why—yes." He vaguely wondered how he had divined the truth before he had spoken it.

Tamar went methodically to the nearest guest room. It was always kept in readiness, but she inspected the linen and turned back the heavy loured spread. She looked up to find her father in the doorway.

"How badly is he injured?" she heard her voice ask.

Canadian Air Force Operation Units Doing Good Job

Straightforward, straight-shooting Canadian youths make up the personnel of Royal Canadian Air Force operation units stationed along Canada's eastern seaboard and any attempt to describe them as "glamor-pants" is laughed off.

They say their job of keeping free from enemy activity the Dominion's door to Europe and adjacent waters is mostly "routine" and often "dull," and that is the way they want it told. That holds true from Wing-Comdr. H. N. Carcassell of Hamilton, Ont., head of one of the units who says "we perform certain specified operations" and let it go at that, down to the rawest recruits.

You could compare P.L. L. L. (Slim) Jones of Saskatoon favorably with any fighting Spitfire pilot—the "flamboyant" of the R.A.F. Only 24, he has the appearance of a senior in college, but he sports the striped ribbons of the distinguished Flying Cross and Air Force Cross.

He left home in 1937, working his way to England on a cattle boat with the idea of getting a ground engineer's job. He did, but a short time later was flying bombers with the Royal Air Force coastal command.

When hostilities broke out he was tossed into the thick of it and in April, 1940, was awarded the D.F.C. Asked what specific action merited the award he said, "It was just an accumulation of events. We escorted troops into Narvik" and, when the time was over, escorted them out again.

More or less as an after-thought, he said he had been given the A.E.C. But only a short while ago one of his crew mates was killed in a crash. It's "all in a day's work," he believes and this opinion was backed up by Cpl. A. K. North of St. Catharines, Ont.

Maybe it is, but their officers believe it is the type of "day's work" that will keep this coast safe from invasion.

Benny Nusbaum, New York paperhanger, knew Adolf Hitler when Hitler was known as plain Schickelgruber, the paperhanger.

They were members, he said, of the "paperhangers' union in Germany."

"He was not only a crack-pot," said Nusbaum, "but he couldn't put paper up straight. His work was terrible. With one arm I could do a better job than that guy. No wonder he gave it up."

"He was a punk soldier, too. We both were private. I rose to the rank of sergeant. He never got higher than corporal."

Nusbaum, who arrived in the United States 19 years ago, now is a senior air raid warden in Queens.

He has a memento from Hitler—a medal sent by him by mail in 1935, awarded "in the name of the Reichsfuehrer and chancellor of the German people for conspicuous bravery and service to the Fatherland in the last war."

There must have been some mistake about the medal, Nusbaum said, since he is Jewish and he didn't think the Nazis were passing out medals to Jews.

Just Simple Question

"Are you a native of this place?" asked a traveller in Kentucky, of a colored resident there.

"Ah! I what?" said the puzzled black.

"I say, are you a native here?" While the man was still hesitating over his answer, his wife came to the door.

"Ah! you got no sense, Sambo?" she exclaimed. "The gen'l'man means was 'yo' livin' heah when you was born, or was you born before yo' began livin' heah. Now, answer the gen'l'man."

Reduction Of Speed On Curves

Advised As One Method

The Cleveland Plain Dealer says tire builders and highway engineers make a special point of advising reduction of speed on curves as a measure of conservation. Students who have analyzed sweepings from paved highways say the rubber particles worn away on the bends is 12 times that on the straightaways.

That will be bitter medicine for the high-speed drivers, who long ago learned that to make time "on a winding road they had to use the race drivers' trick of accelerating on curves."

"Ruthie's fat but awfully nice," the hostess said. But the men prefer the slender girls somehow!

If you're a "Ruthie," you needn't accept such a remark. You can lose two pounds a week, choosing foods that cut out you down to 1200 calories a day, instead of the high quantity—maybe 4,000—you get now.

It's easy. When you know your calories you can have just as much to eat. Sliced chicken has only 100 calories a serving (creamed chicken has 430) and a baked white potato (100) is as filling as a sweet potato (200).

Desserts, too, may be on your reducing menu as long as they're low-calorie, such as apple snow, 125 a cup—but NOT chocolate blanc mange, 431!

By being smart about your food you win a smart figure; soon every admires yours!

To know your calories, see our 32-page booklet. It has a calorie chart, 42 delicious low-calorie menus, recipes for amazing desserts. Includes a 3-day liquid diet to reduce weight. Send 15c in coins for your copy of "The New Way To A Youthful Figure" to Home Service Dept., Winnipeg Newspaper Union, 175 McDermot Ave. E., Winnipeg, Man.

The following booklets are also available at 15c each:

The marriage of Miss Shirley Marie, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Mountain Easterbrook, to LAC Norman Jackson, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Jackson, of Weyburn, Saskatchewan, took place at Calgary on February 23rd.

Why editors get grey. The Bellevue ice carnival was proclaimed to all and sundry by an Alberta daily to have taken place in Wetaaskiwin, and the Wetaaskiwin carnival to have been held at Bellevue, according to headlines. What to do about compositors is still a problem.

We remember one time, years ago, when a cockney student missionary undertook to address his new congregation in a Newfoundland church. He took as his subject: "Is there no balm in Gilead?" Is there no physician there? It just so happened that the family occupying the front pew was named Gilligan, and took offense.

If we do have an election in Ontario, many voters will have great difficulty in deciding how they can vote against Mr. Hepburn without voting for Mr. King.—Times Observer, Sioux Lookout, Ont. •

Rev. Father Joseph Desire-Leon Doucet, O.M.I., passed away in Calgary on Monday morning. He was in his 96th year, and as a pioneer missionary and known to the Indians as "God's Lamb," was the first white man to pitch a tent on the site of what is now Calgary.

Experiments designed to increase the vitamin C content of apple juice in Nova Scotia have proved successful, according to a report by the assistant fruit and vegetable products department of that province. Vitamin P has been produced successfully in Alberta from dandelion blossoms, rhubarb and raisins.

Gettin' down to modern times in Alberta, it seems that you have to pay to have your name removed from the telephone directory, whether dead or alive. There are names on our local list of persons who have been enjoying this anti-tax life in the grave for the past ten years. But it costs money to remove that name from the list. Better see Mr. Aberhart?

Under present circumstances in the food field, virtually everything is frozen in price. The belief of this writer is that it does not matter whether stuffed olives are cheap or dear. But if the grocers were to be permitted to take a good profit on such an item he would be less unhappy about the squeeze on items which must be a part of the Canadian diet. The success of the price-control policy depends in no small part on the willing co-operation of the trade. Over the week end, the Cosmopolitan hotel was overcrowded and obliged to turn many would-be guests away, most of whom were obliged to go to Coleman or Bellevue, as the Greenhill was also crowded.

Chinese residents of Cranbrook were recent guests of Rotary, in tribute to the gallant struggle against Japanese aggression put up by the Chinese people in four and a half years of the bloody Sino-Japanese war.

Early in January, the Wartime Industries Control Board announced that the manufacture of passenger automobiles will stop at the end of March or early in April. The manufacturers of these vehicles will then turn over an even greater proportion of their production facilities to making army vehicles and other direct war equipment.

One hundred and sixty-eight men, and not 43 as previously reported, were rescued from the U.S. destroyer Tuxtun and naval supply ship Pollux, foundered on the Newfoundland coast recently. Newfoundland villagers near St. Lawrence have taken about 120 bodies from the sea. These have been removed for burial to Argentina, where the U.S. has a naval base, and to which point the ships were heading when driven on the rocks by a storm.

The "Fireside Hour" at the Cranbrook United church on the evening of Sunday, February 22nd, was sponsored by the Women's Association. The soloist was Mrs. J. Coutts, soprano, with T. S. Beynon as pianist. Mrs. Coutts delighted the audience with her selection of two groups of songs, which included "A Song of Sleep" and "Coming Home." The second movement of "Moonlight Sonata," "Country Garden" and "Butterflies" were beautifully rendered by Mr. Beynon.

Over 10 million pounds of waste paper has been collected in Canada. Its value to the munitions factory can be gauged by the following figures, one ton of waste paper will produce material for any of the following: 1,500 shell containers; 9,000 shell fuse component parts; 47,000 boxes for small arms ammunition; 3,000 boxes for aero cannon shells; 1,000 packing cases for two-pounder shells. Waste paper is also converted into wallboard for building war plants and housing the armed forces.

Addressing a gathering recently at New Glasgow, N.S., Mrs. J. Ed. MacDonald stated: "The question 'how long will our own writings last?' brings the prediction that with the short-lived wood-pulp paper, practically all our books, bound files of newspapers and magazines, will have crumbled to dust long before the lapse of another thousand years. In pursuit of immortality, the New York Times now prints a limited number of copies every day on absolutely pure rag paper for preservation in libraries. The London Times has been doing the same thing for years. Newspapers up to 1850 were printed on rag paper."
